

The editors, being southerners by birth and education, say that they think they understand what will please the South, and they promise to admit anything in their pages "that will in the slightest degree be offensive to Southern taste or feelings."² We have no doubt that they will fulfill their pledge. For our own part, we like to read a newspaper, magazine, or book, that stirs our blood by opposing our notions. New ideas are apt to be struck out by the collision.

of Ohio he settled. After some time he went back to his old home, but soon returned to Ohio. After he left Virginia, the Grand Jury of Hampshire county found a bill of indictment against him; said bill contained two counts. The first count charges Buck with advising a certain slave named Nelson, to abscond from his master. The second count charges him with furnishing Nelson with a copy of his former master's will, by which he had been disinherited, for the purpose of enabling him to dispossess others. This indictment was found in June, 1849. In December last the Governor of Virginia sent a special agent here to demand Buck as a fugitive from justice. He brought an authenticated copy of the indictment. No

Mr. Benton gave notice of a bill to authorize the construction of a national highway from Louisville to San Francisco; Mr. Rust, of a bill to reduce the rates of postage.

The resolution of Mr. Webster, to grant pensions of the public lands to actual settlers, was taken up, and made the order of the day for Monday fortnight.

The following resolution, previously submitted by Mr. Clay, was reconsidered and adopted:—

Resolved, That in the future, when a member of Congress dies, and has been hurried in the nation, the Senate will not feel itself called upon to extend to the memory of the deceased the elaborate and ceremonies which have been of late years

In another part of this paper will be found a report of the proceedings of this Cancon, held at Albany, by the Democratic members of the legislature, on Wednesday evening. They followed the ancient usage, and called a Convention of one delegate from each Assembly district, for the purpose of nominating a ticket of State officers. The Convention is further empowered to perfect the same organization as the Democratic party in this State, by combining all, distinct organizations, and to decide what manner future Conventions are to be conducted. The Convention is to be held on the 11th of September, at Syracuse.

Flour—Sales of 3,900 bbls. at $4.81 a cwt. for Western and common State brands. Pure wheats $5.50; Southern $4.94 a $5.85; Canadian $4.80. Corn Meal $2.81 a $2.87. Rye flour unchanged.

Holders of wheat are asking prices at the views of buyers, and the sales have been moderate. Corn is steady—sales of 40,000 bushels at $5.60 for red and yellow. Oats $2.42 for Southern and Northern. Rye $7.75.

Provisions duller—sales of 1,000 lbs. $10 for mess, and $8.37 for prime. Lard unchanged in bids.

Groceries dull—sales of 2,000 bags of Domingo coffee at $3.60 per lb.

content Reports during the season of cold weather is to assemble at Columbus on the first day next.

Communications from Reporters, stating that they have no work required, and acceptors by return letters from Mr. Sutton of Washington, or Mr. J. V. SMITH, of Boston, will be received up to the 15th inst.

Daily Enquirer Office, Cincinnati

By New York Tribune and Boston Post copy in Daily, and send bill to this office. Mark

LAW OFFICE, COLUMBUS, O.

WILLIAM B. JARVIS, Junr., Attorney and Counselor at Law, Columbus, Ohio. Office in Plastering Business street, opposite south door of State House. Sentinels connected with the profession, of all ranks.

Compensation
commendatory
Parkhurst
Address
Cincinnati, Ohio.
three times
Feb 21—4t

